

Check Your Gates Close Flush!

Posted on June 10, 2011 by Graham

A foal reared at a gateway and came down catching a front leg between the gate and the gate post. It then flipped and ended up hanging by the leg. Fortunately he was extracted before he fractured the leg, but he is not out of the woods yet... There is severe muscle and nerve damage to the limb.

Moral of the story – check your gates close flush with the gate post and the chain catch doesn't allow the gate to open a dangerous few inches.
